STATE'S DAY IN COOPER TRIAL

Binning's Testimony Turned Down and Witness Arrested for Perjury

Nashville, March 5.—This was the state's day in the trial of Colonel D. B. and Robin Cooper and John D. Sharpe, charged with murdering Former Senator Carmack. Not only did it break down the testimony of S. J. Binning, the defense's mysterious bearded man who claimed to have seen the shooting, but caused Binning's arrest on a charge of perjury. The state also tried to impeach the testimony of the governor and others who declared the Coopers were invited to the governor's mansion and that while on their way there, they met Carmack and the street duel followed.

The bombardment of the defenses came began when the witnesses testified that Binning, the night of the tragedy, said to them, "If I had been 5 or 10 minutes earlier I would have seen the killing."

The protest of the jury against the delays in the Cooper-Sharpe trial, for the murder of Former Senator E. W. Carmack had an appreciable effect upon counsel on both sides today, and they used every endeavor to rush the trial. Charlie Carroll testified that he conversed with S. J. Binning, a defense witness, concerning the shooting of Carmack.

"Did he tell you that if he had arrived five minutes earlier, he would have seen the murder of Mr. Carmack?"

"He did."

"Was your brother present?"

"He was."

General Washington, on cross-examination, confused the witness some what as to the exact time of the conversation which the witness said occurred on the day of the tragedy.

Binning had previously testified that he saw the shooting. George Carroll, brother of Charlie, was next called. The defense made a desperate but unsuccessful effort to prevent Carroll from corroborating his brother. George Carroll repeated practically what his brother had told.

George Wooley was called by the state to testify as to the location of the two telephone poles at the scene of the tragedy. The object was to pave the way for the introduction of a photograph taken by the state of the pole still standing, together with the dummy erected to represent the pole that has been removed. The defense objected to this testimony.

The court finally sustained the defense and the witness was excused.

Miss Ella Lamb, a trimly gowned, self-possessed young woman, was next called. Her testimony flatly contradicted that of the witness Binning.

Former State Treasurer Ed. Craig who carried Colonel Cooper's threat to Carmack, was recalled by Captain Fitzgibbon.

"Did Colonel Cooper, in either interview, express a desire for a personal interview with Carmack and say he would come to it unarm?"

"No sir; no such request."

Frank Allen, a driver of a laundry wagon, who was near the scene of the tragedy when it occurred, contradicted Binning's testimony.

SPECIAL SERVICES FOR FATHERS AND MOTHERS

At the Baptist church Sunday night at 7:30 a very important service will be held at this time in the interests of the young people of Ogden. For a long time sentiment has been increasing and public opinion changing in relation to the home and its influence in shaping the characters of the boys and girls. Fathers and mothers have been too neglectful in the past, and to a certain extent, the home has lost its influence over the children. Alive to this lack of home training, every effort should be put forth to stem the tide that is sweeping our homes away, and to throw around the children in the home an influence that will help.

This service will be characterized by simplicity and earnestness. There will be nothing said to hurt the most sensitive feelings, but in a plain, practical way, Chief Browning, of the Ogden police department, who will address this meeting, will tell fathers and mothers of the many pitfalls in the city, of the many devices that are put forth to entice the unsuspecting, and will urge upon parents a return to the old-time home life, where around the fireside the children may gather.

STARTLING DISCLOSURES IN THE WATERWORKS DEAL

Public Kept in the Dark While Large Sums of Money Are Being Paid Out For Property Which the Records of Weber County Show Belongs to Ogden City—Warranty Deed in County Recorder's Office Proves the Gill Property Was Transferred to the Ogden Waterworks Company on Jan. 4, 1907—Ogden City Council, on the Night of February 15 Last, Authorized the Payment of $4,384.10 For This Same Piece of Land and the Money Was Later Paid Out of the Waterworks Funds.

To the Ogden Standard: The suggestion of the Standard, in its issue of yesterday, that the city authorities should make a statement showing just what the city got for the very large sum of money raised by a special tax levy by which the taxes of every owner of property in this city was increased 25 per cent and by the issuing and selling of bonds of the city, is timely and pertinent. The Standard intimates that we got a "pig in a poke," but I am not sure that we got the pig. It was represented to the voters of the city, and I am told that City Attorney De Vine stated at a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, pending the bond election, that among the properties which the city would acquire in the deal for the waterworks system, was the tract of land at the mouth of Taylor's canyon, known as the Gill land, being the north half of section 35, township 6 north, range 1 west, containing 320 acres, and which he stated, I am told, was worth $5,000. This is the land on which is located the big spring, commonly called the City Spring, and also some smaller springs, near the mouth of the canyon. I think it was generally understood by the voters of the city that in the purchase of the waterworks system the city would acquire title to this land, for the records of this county show that on January 4, 1907, Elizabeth B. Gill, James D. Gill and Evelyn C. Gill conveyed this land to the Ogden Waterworks company by warranty deed. This deed is recorded in Book 52, page 485, and the consideration named in the deed is $5,000. By this deed the waterworks company acquired all the title that the Gills ever had to this land, it being an absolute warranty deed. On December 31, 1908, the waterworks company, for a consideration of $155,400, conveyed the waterworks system and this among other lands, to the city. This deed of conveyance is recorded in Book 58, at page 256.

But notwithstanding these facts, on the 15th day of February, 1909, the city council passed a resolution reciting in substance that the city had acquired the equity which the waterworks company formerly held in this land, and also that the waterworks company held an option for the purchase of this land from the Gills, and that the option would expire on the 15th day of that month, and further that the Gills refused to extend the option. The resolution, therefore, directed that a warrant be drawn for $4,384.10 to take up this option, which was done. Now, if any such option had in fact existed it expired with the close of business hours on that day, and was no longer in force at the time this resolution was passed in the evening of that day, but as I have shown, the waterworks company got a warranty deed from the Gills for this land and not a mere option. Therefore, if the Gills had a good title the waterworks company got a good title, and if the waterworks company got a good title, then the city got a good title by the deed from the waterworks company, dated December 31, 1908, and recorded in Book 58, at page 256. Then why did the city, more than a month after receiving a deed from the waterworks company for this land and more than a year after the Gills had conveyed the land to the waterworks company, pay to the Gills $4,384.10 for this same land. And, further, did the city get an abstract of title to this land and has the city attorney investigated the title to ascertain whether or not the city yet has a good title? If so, has he found the chain of title to be perfect? If this title has not been investigated, it would be well for the city to cause an investigation, as it may find it necessary to buy all or a part of this land again.

(Signed) A. W. AGEE.

Ogden, March 5, 1909.

The statements made by Mr. Agee have been verified by a representative of this paper, who Friday afternoon examined the records in the recorder's office, and then conferred with the county treasurer to determine if the Gills had more than this 320 acres of land, or that by any chance a mistake could have been made in describing the land. The investigations disclosed that Mr. Agee had accurately described the transactions as they appear of record in the county court house.

Attacked Man Throws His Jewelry and Wallet Into Snowbank

Six Cabinet Members Obligated by Chief Justice Fuller

New York, March 6.—Four men attempted a holdup in wild-west style in Harlem last night, but the victim, or rather the would-be victim, although wounded by a bullet in the left arm, had presence of mind enough to throw his diamond pin, a gold watch and chain, and a wallet containing $150 into a snow bank. His assailants after firing six shots, only one of which took effect, escaped in the darkness.

The man who frustrated the robbery is Abraham Bloom, a retired liquor dealer. He was visiting friends in West 127th street when summoned to the doors and told to hold up his hands. The scrimmage followed.

LIFE AFTER DEATH

A problem of perennial interest is the one which concerns the survival of human personality after death. The world is not through with it yet. The sermons at the Congregational church during the next few Sunday evenings will deal with various phases of the question in the light of present thought. Can men believe in the future life? Ought they to believe in it? Are all men entitled to immortality? Do all men deserve it? The sermons will be especially for young people. The service begins at 7:30 o'clock. The young people's choir has charge of the music.

O. S. L. EXCURSION TO SALT LAKE CITY. March 4 and 6, $1.10 round trip.

Washington, March 6.—Six members of President Taft's cabinet took the oath of office today. They were P. C. Knox, Frank H. Hitchcock, Geo. V. L. Meyer, R. A. Ballinger, James Wilson and Charles Nagel.

George W. Wickersham took the oath of office as attorney general yesterday and Messrs. Dickinson and MacVeagh will not reach the city for some days.

The oaths today were administered by Chief Justice Fuller.

As soon as the ceremony had been completed, President Taft gave himself up to the reception of the several hundred persons who gained admittance to his office by reason of being accompanied by senators and representatives. The outer office was crowded and as the line passed through the cabinet room each was introduced and shook hands with the President.

Senator Aldrich of Rhode Island interrupted the reception by a somewhat lengthy conference with the chief executive.

While the friends of senators and members were being received in the office building, several thousand people gathered in the east room, being delegations with proper credentials, and when Mr. Taft had disposed of the first crowd he went to the east room, where the handshaking process continued.
